

- Are scientists shown more working alone or collaborating with others?
(The average working scientist has 13.8 collaborators.)
- Is science shown as more connected with one gender?
- Does science appear as authoritative and free of mistakes or as a fallible process of inquiry?
- Is science tied to laboratory work or are other kinds of science represented?
- Is there any indication that virtues or questions of ethics are part of the practice of science?
- Is there any indication that scientists might be people of faith?
(A third of working scientists are theists according to a recent survey.)
- Are scientists shown as having relationships and responsibilities to people outside the lab or to society more broadly?
- Is science connected more with precision and technique or with imagination and wonder?