

The book of Genesis often comes up in faith and science debates, but how many of us have read it carefully?

The four words below are from the Hebrew language. They are used in Genesis when describing the role of humans on this planet. You will be investigating the range of meaning for each word.

1. Search online to find out what each word means. You must cite at least 3 different online sources for each word, so that you can be more confident of your findings. Some websites are more accurate than others. Good places to look include websites connected with universities, online concordances or dictionaries, or widely used translators, such as Google translate. Watch for signs, such as poor spelling and grammar, that a site may be unreliable.
2. Use your findings to write a definition for each word.
3. Use your findings to write a sentence that uses each word (the rest of your sentence will be in English) in a way that shows its intended meaning.
4. Finally, find out where these words are used in Genesis 1-2. Write out the verses that contain them.

Radah: Definition:
Sources:
Example sentence:
Appearances in Genesis 1-2:

Kabash: Definition:
Sources:
Example sentence:
Appearances in Genesis 1-2:

Shamar: Definition:
Sources:
Example sentence:
Appearances in Genesis 1-2:

'abad: Definition:
Sources:
Example sentence:
Appearances in Genesis 1-2: